then no consideration? Even if "all coons look alike," certainly they are not all the same quality.

Can anything be more true than this concerning jewelry or silver goods? How many pieces made in the same pattern, from the common plated ware to the finest of gold, bear the same outward resemblance?

Can you tell them apart? Yet you do not wonder that there is some difference in the cost of making.

Is it not here where the guarantee and the reputation of the dealer is your safeguard?

This fall's productions embrace some striking examples in the better class of ornaments.

Magnificent brooches and pendants set with the different gems. The "Art Nouveau," so popular at the Paris Exposition. Highly artistic and individual. Not the kind turned out by the yard.

We have all the high-class gold and silver novelties to be found anywhere, and believe it possible to meet all requirements for goods in our various lines.

Christmas shopleague matches into a fit condition for ping is much the same the world over, the fray.

England won the toss, and Blackman elected to defend the Beretania goal. The game began in brisk style, and it was soon evident that the handy men of the Icarus were no mean foe. Their combination was of a good order, and as they carried no passengers in their crew, their attack was soon rewarded with success. England's forwards new began to press, and after continual effort the combined work of Lansdale, Fiddes and Davies culminated in a stinging shot for the latter. The champions of the rose were now on equal terms with the seamen. Just before half-time Blackman placed the ball through the uprights, and when the interval arrived the score stood at ENGLAND, 2 GOALS.

This in popular partimely tips of the coming of all the lance, includes several varieties of vessels which make Honolulu a port of call, is not forgotten by the business community of the city as Christmas draws nigh. Charlie will receive a purse of $400 which has been subscribed by the merchants. Colonel Soper has been especially interested in the matter, and Charlie's last Christmas for the nineteenth century will certainly be one he will not soon

There is always a certainty when a from the Orient, that Charlie's vigilant eye is scanning the wide sea over. As soon as he perceives a black speck on the horizon the news is flashed to the city as soon as the present poor telephone system will permit. The keeper of the Diamond Head signal as unfavorable circumstances. The station is a valuable man to the community, for upon him devolves the question of deciding just how many hours the business man has to make up his correspondence for the mails.

Charlie's stereotyped telephone message to town-"Steamer off Koko spent a week visiting in Honolulu. Head"-has often caused more excitement in Honolulu than a revolution, especially when news of the elections are awaited. In all the years that Charlie has watched from his signal tower his vigilance has not lessened with the lapse of time, but his ability to supply the merchants with information has been greatly curtailed by the many recent "improvements" in the telephone system, which is now execrable

The fisheries exhibit will thus have a setting of considerable magnitude, occupying a commanding position in an exceeding cosmopolitan neighborhood. Many features of dominating interest will receive careful consideration in this exhibit, but one of which could be mentioned in a short descriptive article.

German carp, that much discredited and maligned fish, will be represented at its true value. Like the history of lake sturgeon, when it is better known, it will be appreciated,

In Germany, carp is cultivated as a farm product. Streams are dammed. which causes the water to overflow areas of several hundred acres in extent. Once each year, in cold weather, when the fish are at their best, the water is drained off and the largest fish scooped from shallow pools with dipnets. In this manner a pond containing 250 acres of water has been made to yield 40,000 pounds of carp per year. A thorough business is made of catching the fish and shipping them immediately, while in proper condition, to the larger markets throughout the country.

At the outlet of the pond a floor is built, with sorting tables and large tubs of water, in which the fish are cleaned and otherwise prepared.

The men and women out in the pond, barefooted, with little protection from the cold, have the disagreeable part of the work. A fire is often lighted on the higher ground at which they may occasionally warm themselves. During the fish harvest the poacher is a constant nuisance, a watch being required day and night until the pond is refilled.

That carp are appreciated on the German market, is illustrated by the fact that the output from one of these carp farms amounting to about 42,600 pounds of fish, brought £1,670 sterling, or about twenty cents per pound of our money.

In the United States no fish is rebass, pike and pickerel that a fullblooded sportsman would not consider worthy of his royal attention. Technically speaking, a game fish has a straight-cut tail, split or forked tails being entirely eliminated.

As population increases, we will be required to revise our knowledge and opinions in regard to fish. Catfish, the lazy breeds of sa'mon, carp, eels, and many other varieties of food fishes will be cultivated and grown as ship is expected from the Coast or they are in older countries. Many rural streams that are simply running to waste, should be sheltered and stocked with suitable varieties.

The exhibit at the Pan-American Exposition will illustrate how the can be done under favorable as well question is simple as raising poultry when it is properly understood. HERBERT SHEARER.
